About

I am currently pursuing a Master of Computer Applications (MCA) from Sardar Patel Institution of Technology with a strong foundation in software development. I have hands-on experience in Flutter development, building efficient and user-friendly mobile applications for iOS and Android. My interests lie in full-stack development and backend development, where I aim to deepen my expertise in creating robust, scalable systems. I'm always eager to learn new technologies and contribute to innovative projects.

Projects

  The CRM mobile app for Colliers enables users to manage properties, listings, transactions, companies, contacts, and bookmarks with real-time search and filtering. Key features include a dashboard with widgets for buildings, supply, transactions, and options; recent activity tracking; bookmarking across all modules; detailed building pages with stacking plans and transaction history; supply, listing, company, and contact management; and an option module for bundling properties and generating reports. The app supports multi-lingual functionality and works on iOS and Android platforms.

- WMS

In the Putaway module, boxes or packages are scanned and stored in designated bin locations. The Picking module involves retrieving boxes or packages from bin locations for dispatch. The Packing module allows for breaking larger quantities into single pieces if necessary. PDV, Bin Movement, and Cycle Count manage other essential warehouse operations, ensuring organized storage, efficient retrieval, and accurate inventory tracking.
